Wanted Protection.

And then she asked Justice Crutchfield f she could be permitted to talk, and aving been granted this privilege, said hat she wanted some protection against he men who were going to her home and aking away all of her valuables. She said that she had a watch in her dresser and a site of a shee in her trunk. She could not find the watch and a $10 note in the toe of a shoe in her trunk. She could not find the watch, and was certain that the shoes were missing, along with the ten dollars. Some practical joker or professional liar had told the woman that a reporter accompanied the police officers to the house and secured a picture of herself. She wanted to know about this, but was busy in a minute afterwards with the details of the case.

At first the matter was continued, but later Miss Walthall was taken into a private room with Officer Wyatt and representatives of the Broad Street arms, who had lost by her taking proclivities, and here, standing beside her trunk, she took from it article after article and handed them over to the firms from which they were taken. And then she went back before Justice John J. Crutchfield and received the sentence of afteen days each for the cases.

Mr. Thomas Mechan, of Philadelphia, son of the author of the best books on arboroulture that, have yet been published in this country, arrived in Richmond yesterday to make an examination of the city nurseries and shade trees.

Mr. Mechan, who is a member of the firm of Mechan and Brothers, spent the day in driving over the city with Colonel Cutshaw, Mayor McCarthy and Mr. Hann, the city nurseryman, and in going through the city nurseries at the new Reservoir.

He Knows Trees.

"I never saw such a man," said Colonel Cutshaw, in speaking of Mr. Mechan's wonderful knowledge of trees. "He knew a tree as far as he could see if, and he talked about arborculture from a practical standpoint, as one who had practiced what he preached. Thursday was begun the erection of the new Hook-Hastings organ in Broad Street Methodist Church. The work is proceeding under the direction of Mr. W. H. Hansford, of the Hook-Hastings Organ Company, or Boston. Mass. The entire end of the building has been torn off 30 feet, so as to make room for the admission of the organ. Extensive repairs are being done in the interior of the church. The ceiling is being frescored green and gold, the walls being stained to match. The powe will be upholstered, and the Ladles' Ald Society is making arrangements to put down a handsome dark green carpet in the aisles.

The church will be opened probably at Christmas. Bishop Charles B. Galloway, of Jackson, Miss, will conduct the opening services, and the best musical talent in the city will be secured for the occasion.

The entire work and repairs will cost about $10,000, the organ costing $3,000. Street Methodist Church.

So this step is the successor of many that have preceded, are the path of free hearted charity so that few may await their turn in valu. In order that the patient may enter the hospital in the best condition, the following simple rules have been laid down:

1. Sign the admission card.

1. Sign the admission card.
2. Have some friend to sign it.
3. Present it to the superintendent of the Memorial Hospital at least two weeks before treatment shall become necessary.
4. If for any reason the patient cannot procure an admission card, she should apply to the superintendent in person, by letter, or through a friend.
By observing these simple rules, the patient will receive the proper medical supervision, and be advised as to the proper time to enter the hospital.
